

Girl Trouble

Setting:

On the Isle of Fey in the Northern Sea sits the court of the Fairy Queen Esmeralda. The ladies of the court are all fair of face, full of grace, and carry an air of magic and mischief. Each year, the men of the Southern Isles send an emissary to present an annual tithe in exchange for fair weather, good fishing, and assorted blessings. Leopold is handsome, young, and brave. Bravery is an important trait for an emissary because sometimes the Fairy Queen keeps the emissary as her plaything.

Enter Briar Rose, a lady of the court who becomes smitten with this man, as does Queen Esmeralda. Not wanting to see Leopold subjected to the Fairy Queen's cruel amusements, Briar Rose confides with some of the other ladies of the courts (the players) that she dares to steal away with this man and flee the Fairy Court.

The NPCs:

Esmeralda, Queen of the Fairy Court on the Isle of Fey in the Northern Sea, she's the current ruler of the island and all the waters surrounding it. Her magical power is great due in part to the energy she draws from the prisoners trapped in her dungeons. The biggest gun is the Sea King which is why Men pay homage to her instead of the old gods of the sea. Beautiful, cruel, petty, and just a little mad, can all describe her faces. The Fairy Court is composed of a number of magical creatures, most of them are female.

Briar Rose, a red headed beauty of pale skin and full red lips. She's currently smitten with Leopold. But, that might be just to spite Esmeralda or perhaps that's the only way she can see to get exiled from the Fairy Court. When upset, she can be hard to handle with a prickly temperament.

Leopold Fishmonger, is young and handsome fellow but none too quick on the uptake. Given that, he is also quite brave, knows how to sail, swim like a fish, and can tie a pretty mean knot.

The Sea King, a prisoner and format tyrant of the waves.

The Stage:

The Fairy Court, the Queen's Chambers, the dungeon, the Isle of Fey (which is home to forests, cliffs, caves, rolling hills, some farmland, a mysterious swamp), the docks, Leopold's sloop.
